"ROCK ME TO SLEEP."

Backward, turn backward, oh time, in your flight!
Make me a child again, just for to night!
Mother, come back from the echoless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore—
Kiss from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair—
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep.

Backward, flow backward, oh tide of years!
I am so weary of toils and of tears—
Toil without recompense—tears all in vain—
Take them and give me my childhood again!
I have grown weary of dust and decay,
Weary of flinging my soul-wealth away;
Weary of sorrowing for others to reap;
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep;

Tired of the hollow, the base, the untrue.
Mother, oh, mother, my heart calls for you!
Many a summer the grass has grown green
Blossomed and faded—our faces between—
Yet with strong yearning and passionate pain,
Long I to night for your presence again;
Come from the silence so long and so deep—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep.

Over my heart in the days that are flown,
No love like mother-love ever has shown—
No other worship abides and endures,
Faithful, unselfish and patient like yours.
None like a mother can charm away pain
From the sick soul, and the world-weary brain.
Slumbers soft calm o'er my heavy lids creep
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep.

Come, let your brown hair just lighted with gold.
Fall on your shoulders again as of old;
Let it fall over my forehead to-night,
Shielding my faint eyes away from the light;
For with its sunny-edged shadows once more
Haply will throng the sweet visions of yore;
Lovingly, softly, its bright billows sweep—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock to sleep.

Mother, dear mother! the years have been long
Since I last hushed to your lullaby song;
Sing then, and unto my soul it shall seem
Womanhood's years have been but a dream;
Clasp to your arms in a loving embrace
With your light lashes just sweeping my face,
Never hereafter to wake or to weep—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep.

A Traitor Feasted in Philadelphia

Basil Duke, the noted guerrilla chief and horse-thief, was feasted and petted at the Continental, on Friday last, by a number of his Copperhead friends in this city. He was on the way to Fort Delaware, under the charge of Major G. E. Johnston, and a guard of four men. Instead of the Major's proceeding with him to the Fort immediately, he ordered two rooms at the Continental Hotel, without registering either Duke's or the the guards' names, where these rebel sympathizers assembled and presented numerous gifts to the well known traitor. This proceeding on the part of a United States officer was uncalled for, and should be investigated by the authorities at Washington. Notwithstanding all this, he was promenaded up and down Chestnut street, much to the chagrin of the loyal people who recognized him. While on the road to the depot, the guard were obliged to walk about twenty yards in the rear of the rebel and the Major. He was finally quartered in Fort Delaware, and the guard returned to this city, from which we gleaned the above facts. Basil Duke has for some time been confined in a prison at Columbus, Ohio, from which place he was sent to the Fort under orders of Major General Heintzelman. From there here he was indulged in Catawba wine and other luxuries, to the tune of about one hundred dollars.—We regret not knowing the names of those who participated in the banquet at the hotel, as, if known, they would be served up in printed form.—Phila. News.

BAYONETS RADICAL.—Gen. McNeil in a speech welcoming the return of Missouri veterans to St Louis, said:

I and many others have stood here, the faithful sentinels over every man's negro. They dared this rebellion in order to open the slave trade. They were afraid of the growth of population on this grand bread-growing country, and broke the contract under which we worked faithfully, and when they broke that contract, I said we would make a new contract which would wipe out slavery. [Cheers] I should never have interfered. I was a Conservative in times of peace; always have been a Conservative; I thank God my father gave me a trade, and when he sent me out he was putting a loaf of bread under my arm. I never asked for a public office. I felt conservative; I felt like sustaining everything that kept peace and quietness between our neighbors. When this war came, I said we will have a new deal entirely, and before this war is done will do away with the cause of it. You may suppose I am diverging into the line of politics; but in this war a soldier cannot talk without getting into politics. Everything is political, and bayonets are radical.

Romantic History and Death of a Brooklyn Girl.

[From the Brooklyn Daily Times.]

It is now about a year since a young lady, nineteen years of age, residing in Willoughby street, Brooklyn, beautiful, educated, and refined, became possessed of a singular monomania. She had taken a great interest in the progress of the war, read with the greatest avidity all the accounts in the newspapers of battles, sieges, "scapes i' the imminent deadly breach," and could think and talk of nothing but glorious war. Soon her actions showed that, in this particular at least, her brain had been turned with military enthusiasm, and she announced to her astonishment and grief-stricken family that she was a second and modern Joan of Arc, called by Providence to lead our armies to certain victory in this great civil contest. Her friends, who are wealthy and respectable, in vain tried to combat her delusion.—Medical advice was called in, and a change of scene was recomended by the family physician.

In conformity with his counsel, the young lady was removed to Ann Arbor, in the State of Michigan. Why she was taken so great a distance is not known, but it is surmised that her family had near relatives in that vicinity. Her mania, however, continued to increase, until it was found necessary to confine her to her apartment. She, however, succeeded in making her escape, repaired to Detroit, in male clothes, and joined the drum corps of a Michigan regiment, her sex being known only to herself. Her regiment was sent to the Army of the Cumberland, and the girl continued to do her duty as a drummer-boy, though how she survived the hardships of the Kentucky campaign, where strong men fell in numbers, must forever remain an inscrutable mystery.

The regiment to which she was attached had a place in the division of the gallant Van Cleve, and during the bloody battle of Lookout Mountain, the fair girl fell, pierced in the left side by Minie ball, and when borne to the surgeon's tent her sex was discovered. She was told by the surgeon that her wound was mortal, and he advised her to give her name that her family might be informed of her fate. This she finally, though reluctantly consented to do, and the Colonel of the regiment, although suffering himself from a painful wound, became interested in her behalf, and prevailed upon her to let him send a despatch to her father. This she dictated in the following manner:

"Mr —, No — Willoughby street, Brooklyn:

"Forgive your dying daughter. I have but a few moments to live. My native soil drinks my blood. I expected to deliver my country, but the fates would not have it so. I am content. Pray, Pa, forgive me. Tell ma to kiss my daguerreotype.

EMILY.

"P. S. Give my gold watch to little Eph." (The youngest brother of the dying girl.)

The poor girl was buried on the field on which she fell in the service of her country, which she fondly hoped to save.

Insulting the Flag.

A little wasp of a creature, named Mrs W., passing by the emblem of American nationality—the Stars and Stripes—stood and looked at its folds, and then, with an air of disgust and a hoggish crook to her nose, (and undoubtedly a hoggish heart to her nature) she gave her hoops an elevated swing, and was heard to say: "I hope the nasty thing won't touch my dress." This compound of secession madness and stupid ignorance should know that her betters wrap their beloved dead in the same, starry folds—that ere her corrupt being was a foul spot upon woman's fair fame, the mothers of all the Presidents of the Republic loved and worshipped that same old flag—that, after this little secesh vixen is dead and gone, and the worms have even refused to taste of such corruption, that flag will be looked upon as the mothers of the heroes of the revolution looked upon it—with gratidude and reverence. When a woman unsexes herself, and becomes a loathsome essence of depravity, she must and does receive the execration of mankind. Instead of being a blessing, she then becomes a curse. With her own hand she breaks down the barriers that protect her. She puts the poison to her own lips, and sooner or later the vengeance of God falls upon her.—Baltimore paper.

Reformation of Mr. Wirt.

The distinguished William Wirt, within six or seven months after his first marriage, became addicted to intemperance, the effect of which operated on the mind and health of his wife, and in a few months more she was numbered with the dead. Her death led him to leave the country where he resided and moved to Richmond, where he soon rose to distinction. But his habit hung about him, and occasionally he was found with jolly, frolicsome spirits in bacchanalian revelry. His true friends expostulated with him to convince him of the injury he was doing himself.—But he still persisted. His practice began to fall off and many looked on him as on the sure road to ruin. He was advised to get married with a view of correcting his habit. This he consented to do, if the right person offered. He accordingly paid his addresses to Miss Gamble. After some month's attention, he asked her hand in marriage. She replied:

"Mr. Wirt, I have been well aware of your intentions for some time back, and should have given you to understand that your visits and attentions were not acceptable, had I not reciprocated the affection which you evinced toward me. But I cannot yield my assent until you make me a pledge never to taste, touch or handle any intoxicating drinks."

This reply to Wirt was as unexpected as novel. His reply was, that he regarded that proposition as a bar to all further consideration of the subject, and he left her. Her course toward him was the same as ever—his, resentment and neglect.

In the course of a few weeks, he went again and solicited her hand.—But her reply was that her mind was made up. He became indignant and and regarded the terms she proposed as insulting to his honor and vowed it should be the last meeting they should ever have. He took to drinking [illegible] run headlong to ruin.

One day, while lying in the outskirts of the city, near a little grocery or grog shop, drunk, a young lady whom it is not necessary to name, was passing by that way to her home not far off, and beheld him with his face upwards to the rays of the scorching sun. She took her handkerchief with her own name marked upon it, and placed it over his face.—After he had remained in that way for some hours he was awakened, and his thirst being so great, he went into the little grocery and grog shop to get a drink, when he discovered the handkerchief, at which he looked for the name that was on it. After pausing, he exclaimed:

"Great God! who left this with me? Who placed this on my face?"

None knew. He dropped the glass exclaiming:

"Enough! Enough!"

He retired instantly from the store forgetting his thirst, but not his debauch, the handkerchief, or the lady, vowing that: "if God gave him strength, never to touch, taste or handle any intoxicating drinks."

To meet Miss Gamble was the hardest effort of his life. If he met her in her carriage or on foot, he popped around the nearest corner.

She at last addressed him a note under her own hand, inviting him to her house, which he finally gathered courage enough to accept. He told her if she still bore affection to him he would agree to her own terms. Her reply was:

"My conditions are now what they ever have been."

"Then," said he, "I accept them."

They soon married; and from that day he kept his word, and his affairs brightened, while honors and glory gathered thick upon his brow.

NOAH'S ARK, A MODEL SHIP.—The largest ocean steamship now playing on the Atlantic bear precisely the proportions in length, breadth and depth, that are recorded concerning Noah's Ark. The dimensions of the Atlantic steamers are: length, 822 feet; breadth of beam, 50 feet; depth, 28 feet. The dimensions of the Ark were: length, 300 cubits; breath, 50 cubits; depth, 30 cubits. The Ark, therefore, was nearly twice the size in length and breadth of these vessels, the cubit being twenty-two inches; both had upper stories. After all the equipment of forty-two centuries, which have elapsed since the deluge, the ship builders have to return to the model afforded by Noah's Ark.

Another Blunder of M'Clellan or Worse.

Gen. M'Clellan appears to be unfortune in his criticism of portions of the army serving under him. It will be recollected that he unjustly censured Casey's Division of the Army of the Potomac, after the battle of Fair Oaks, before Richmond. In his late report he is equally unfortunate in his censure of Gen. M'Call's Division, the Pennsylvania Reserves, which he accused of misconduct at the battle of Nelson's farm, or New Market Cross Roads, fought June 30th, 1862. This accusation has called out an elaborate defence. The reports of Gen. M'Call and his testimony before the Congressional Committee on the conduct of the war, supported by the reports of the officers of his division, and also the testimony of the rebel officers on the field of battle, are given in evidence to show that the Pennsylvania Reserves fought on that day with the greatest gallantry. It was Lee's intention in making an attack upon M'Call's Division, to break through the Union army, and cut off Franklin's and Heintzelman's Corps, which formed the right wing. This attempt was defeated by the Reserves. Says Fitz John Porter, "Had not M'Call held his place on the New Market Road, June 30th, that line of march of the Federal army would have been cut by the enemy." Says Gen Meade, "It was only the stubborn resistance opposed by our division, the Pennsylvania Reserves, prolonging the contest till after dark, and checking the advance of the enemy, that enabled the concentration during the night, of the whole army, on James River, which saved it." It is also proven that had even Gen. McCall's Division been routed, a rebel force of seventy thousand men, according to Longstreet's own statement, would have been thrust between the right and left wings of the Federal army, with disastrous consequences. Longstreet himself, it is also said, in conversation with a Union surgeon, attributed the failure of the attempt to the stubborn resistance of the Reserves, and asserted that but for the check, he would have captured the whole Union army. What will be thought of Gen. M'Clellan's report, which is thus so flatly contradicted in a point, by not only his own Generals, one of them his bosom friend, but by the testimony of the enemy's generals also?—Corr. Chicago Journal.

"Dead on the Field of Honor?"

"Dead on the field of honor!" This, too, is the record of thousands of unnamed men, whose influence upon other generations is associated with no personal distinction, but whose sacrifice will lend undying lustre to the nation's archives and richer capacity to the nation's life. And yet these martyrs are remembered by name.—Go visit the mourning homes of the land; homes of wealth and plenty, some of them; but richer now by the consecration of sacrifice. But many of these homes of toil and obscurity from which the right hand of support has been taken, or the youthful prop. Poor and obscure—but there the unknown fallen have names, and niches to solemn, tender memory. And what heraldry on palatial walls more glorious than the torn cap and soiled uniform that hang in those homes where the dead soldier comes no more. What aristocratic legend refers to a prouder fact than that which shall often be recited in the still, Summer fields where he labored, and by the Winter fireside where his place is vacant—"He fell in the great war for Union and Freedom!" Sleep, sleep in quiet, grassy graves, wherever the symbols that you loved so well shall cover and spread over you—by day the flowers of red, white and blue; and by night the constellated stars—while out of those graves there grows the better harvest of the nation and of times to come.

And while we praise the Divine Ruler for all this good, and ask to comprehend these lessons of obedience and faithfulness, let us also commit to heart the truth that, whatever may exist in higher realms of being; whatever a better and golden age may require; now, in our present time, and present conditions, the deepest, loftiest possibility of any sphere of life and duty, blossoms and flowers in its heroes and its martyrs.—E. H. Chapin.

Josh Billings on Dogs.

Dogs are various in kinds, and thanks tew in all wise Providence, tha are various in number. They are the only animal of the brute perwashun who have voluntary left a wilde stait of natur, and cum in under the flag ov man. Tha are not vagabones bi choise, and luv tew belong tu somebody. The fact endears them tew us, and i hav alwas rated the dog az about the seventh cusin tew the human specious. Tha kant talk, but tha kan lik yure hand; this shows that their hearts iz in the plase where other folks' tungs iz. Dogs in the lump are useful, but tha are not always proffitable in the lump. The Newfoundlin dog ise useful tew saiv children from drowning, but have got tew have a pond of water, and children running round kareless, or else the dog aint proffittable. Thare aint nothing maid boarding a Newfoundlin dog. Rat Tarriers air useful tew ketch rats, but the rats aint proffittable after you have ketched them.—The Shepard dog is useful tew drive sheep, but if yu hav tew go and buy a flok ov sheep, and pay more than tha are wuth, jist to keep the dog bisy, the dog aint proffittable, not much. Lap dogs are very useful, but if yu don't hold them in yure lap awl the time tha aint proffittable at all. Bull dogs are extremely uzeful, but you hav tew keep a bull tew, or else yu kant make enything on the dog. The coach dog iz one of moste usefullest of dogs i kno ov, but you hav got to hav a coach (and that aint alwus pleasant,) or you kant realize from the dog. Thus we see, that while dogs are generally useful, thare are times tha aint generally proffittable. I don't really luv a yaller dog, nor a mad dog, but with these tew untortunate excepshuns, it is dreadful hard work for me tew sa a hard word agin a dog; the wag ov their tails is what takes me. Enny man who will abuse a dog, will abuse a woman, and enny [illegible] five or forty miles meaner than—pale yaller dog. These are my sentiment, and i shan't change them, until i receive notice that the camal has smoothed down the hump on his back, and the sarpant ceases to wiggle when he wanders.

THE BLACK SOLDIERS IN FLORIDA.—Col. Hallowell, a young citizen of Philadelphia, and a veteran in the war, commanded the Massachusetts 54th, which behaved so splendidly in the desperate battle of Olustee, or Ocean Pond, as it is termed in the official despatch of Beauregard. An officer writes: "Before going into battle the 54th was double-quicked for a mile, and, as they went in, Gen. Seymour said to Colonel Hallowell, 'The day is lost; you must go in and save the corps.' He did go in and did save it, checked the enemy, held the field, and was the very last to leave, and covered the retreat." Another correspondent says: "I hear loud praises of the 54th Massachusetts, 8th U. States, and 1st North Carolina (colored).—They went up at the double-quick when our advance was nearly destroyed, and saved the left from being turned, in which case the whole force would have been annihilated. The conduct of the troops is represented to have been uniformly admirable.—The colored troops did nobly. Col. Hallowell, in an address to his regiment, told them he could not find fault with a single officer or man. And I could but admire their patience while waiting to have their wounds dressed, and to be conveyed to the pital from the steamer. In the 8th U. S. colored, one of the battle-flags was lost, but not till after eight men in the color guard had been killed."

EDUCATION.—Make home an institution of learing. Provide books for the center table, and for the library of the family. See that all the younger children attend the best schools, and interest yourself in their studies. If they have the taste for thorough cultivation, but not the means to pursue it, if possible provide for education.—Daniel Webster taught at the intervals of his college course, to aid a brother in the pursuit of his education. A volume of his works is dedicated to the daughter of that brother, who early closed a briliant career. Feel that an ignorant brother or sister will be a disgrace to your family, and trust not the prevention of such a reproach to the casual influence of the press, existing institutions, and the offices of strangers. If the family becomes as it may be an institution of learning, the whole land will become educated.

Gen. Meade and His Accusers.

The public is familiar with the charges which have recently been made against Gen. Meade by Gens. Sickles and Doubleday, and which have been widely circulated in the newspapers. The entire North however, is the well-wisher of this gallant officer. The N. Y. Times, in an excellent article upon this subject, makes the following judicious remarks:

"We are no advocates of General Meade, or any other general. We acknowledge no test of military ability except the result of campaigns.—But we protest strongly against having this officer called to answer to Gens. Sickles and Doubleday, or anybody else who serves under him, for any order he gave at Gettysburg, or anywhere else. It is universally acknowledged that there is nothing more fatal to the usefulness of an army than the prevalence amongst subordinates of the habit of criticising the plans of their chief. It has already worked terrible mischief in this Army of the Potomac, and has had much to do with its various failures. If Gen. Meade had wanted to retreat fifty miles from Gettysburg, instead of seventeen as is alleged, and had given an order for that purpose, it was not the business of either Gen. Sickles or Gen. Doubleday to correct or to criticise it. Their business was simply and solely to obey it. He did not retreat; the battle of Gettysburg was fought and won, and he has, since then, by his conduct in Virginia, given decided proofs of a high order of talent. We know that he is the only general who has commanded on the Potomac, so far, whom Gen. Lee has not out-manœuvered. It is in the highest degree absurd to arraign him for having ordered a retreat, after the first day's fighting at Gettysburg, unless somebody is able to say what would have happened if he had retreated. We submit that we have had enough of this folly. Pope's campaign was converted into horrible butchery because Fitz John Porter took it into his head that he was bound to correct Popes strategy. Burnside's campaign was marred by his officers undertaking to carry their orders to Washington and a caucus over them before obeying them; and we greatly fear we shall see Meade sacrificed during the coming campaign to the baneful and mischievous delusion that generals of division are Congressional inspectors of strategy, charged with the task of detecting and exposing the blunders and shortcomings of their commanding officer."

YOUNG BLOOD.—General Kilpatrick and General Custer, whose exploits are to day the leading theme of newspaper comment and of social remark, are both of them men in the heyday of youth. Kilpatrick is twenty-eight years old, and has been a widower for about a year. Custer, the youngest general in our service, is but twenty-four years of age, and was married only three or four weeks ago. Both of those brave young men are West Pointers, and were graduated in the same class—that of 1861.

General Averill, who made the brilliant raid into Western Virginia, is a little senior of these two. He is now laying in Washington, with both feet suffering severely from frost-bite. During the dash into Southwestern Virginia he was at one time forty-eight hours in the saddle, exposed to the fury of a bitter cold storm, and he has been disabled ever since. The public which appreciates such gallant service as Averill has rendered, will be pleased to learn that he is recovering, and will be, beforelong, once more in the saddle.—Post.

BEAVER ARGUS.

Wednesday, Mar. 16, 1864

D. L. IMBRIE, Editor & Proprietor.

For President in 1864,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN,

OF ILLINOIS.

For Vice President,

ANDREW G. CURTIN

OF PENNSYLVANIA.

REMOVAL.—The ARGUS OFFICE has been removed to the room over Dr. Cumming' Drug Store, nearly opposite our old office, where we may be found at all times, ready to attend to the wants of our friends and patrons. Entrance at the North side of the building.

☞ Dr. Thos. Donehoo, late of Wellsville. Ohio, having located in Beaver, will receive calls at his office in the Southern extremity of the National Hotel, in this place.

☞ The attention of our readers is directed to the card of Dr. P. B. Young, of Freedom, which will be found in another column.

Also to the advertisement of Mr. Mercer's Seminary, found in our advertising columns in this days' issue.

☞ Mr. Long, editor of the Star, in his last issue, says, in consequence of a partial change in his arrangements relating to the paper, it will remain under his control a few weeks longer.

☞ The time of the Pennsylvania Legislature, so far, has principally been taken up with stump speeches, which were made in last fall's campaign, now reiterated and printed at the expense of the State. We would advise that if they have anything to do that they now go to work and get through with their business, and go home, that the people may breathe freely once more. There is not one in a thousand reads their balderdash.—It is only mis-spent time and mis-spent money.

RECORD YOUR DEEDS.—Many persons are doubtless ignorant of the law requiring deeds for land, made within the State, to be recorded within six months, or they will be declared void against subsequent purchasers or mortgages for value. Ignorance of the law excuseth no man, and therefore owners of property would do well to notice the requirements of the prescnt statute.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We learn from a correspondent that Mr. J. K. Weir, of New Galilee, in this county, died very suddenly at Pittsburgh, on Thursday evening last. He left New Galilee on the evening train, apparently in good health. We have not learned the particulars of his death, but understand it was disease of the heart. He was a worthy citizen, and for a number of years has been Postmaster of New Galilee. His loss is deeply felt by all who knew him.

☞ The trial of the case of Jacob J. Ness vs John Blake's Administrators, commenced on last Monday week and is yet on trial as we, write (Tuesday afternoon). This is the third time this case has been tried in this court, and it is to be hoped it will be the last that the people of Beaver county will be burthoned with its trial.

We learn that about sixty bills were found by the Grand Jury last week, principally all for violating the liquor laws, and mostly from New Brighton. We presume that quite a number of these cases must necessarily be continued to next term.

HOW TO PROCURE CREDITS FOR RE-ENLISTED VETERANS.—Write to A. L. Russell, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, giving him the names, company, regiment and date of the enlistment, (as near as you can) and he will send you copies of, or extracts from, the muster rolls. If the men are already credited to your particular sub-district, all is right—you have nothing more to do; but if not, then send the copies or extracts to the office of the Provost Marshal of your district, with proof of residence of the re-enlisted men, for correction. That done the credit will be given.

☞ A prominent officer in the army writes to friend in Illinois, that Gen'l Logan is unwilling to become a candidate for Governor of that State, and earnestly hopes that the loyal voters of Illinois will unite, without reference to former party ties, upon a ticket made up of unconditional unionists, who favor the prosecution of the war to the final overthrow of treason and rebellion.

OHIO AND THE DRAFT.—The Columbus Journal announces that Ohio has filled her quota, and is out at the draft. There will be, therefore, no draft in that State on the 1st of April, if this information is correct.

A Blundering Hero.

Ever since Geo. B. McClellan consented to place himself at the disposal of the leaders of the copperhead faction in this country, his course has been one of blunders. He may be said to have first seriously entertained the designs of making himself President about the 1st of November, 1861, when he, having been received by the President and People with open arms, and placed in a position of greater responsibility than any man had for years enjoyed, was immediately beset by those political harpies who linger around the reputation of a military man for the basest and most selfish purposes, and seduced by their flattery he allowed himself to be lent to their purpose.

From that time to the present, the "Young Napoleon" has been guilty, of the grossest blunders in both a military and political sense. Every one recollects now the mismanagement, during the long delay in front of Mannasas, and the quaker guns—the Yorktown episode; how a most valient siege was laid to that place, and we were told that the second seige of Yorktown was to be more complete in its effects than even the first had been. And we all recollect very well how that the rebellion was'nt at all crushed by the seige of Yorktown. Then the Chickahominy swamps, and the thousands of brave boys whose bones lie bleaching in those marches, not struck down by shot or shell, not the victims of war, but of the blundering generalship, that lead the flower of the Potomac Army into a death poisoned climate—to die with fever. And right well does the country remember the time when this army, thinned and wasted as it was by sickness, had fought its way most manfully and bravely up to the very gates of Richmond, when but another step and the Capitol would have been ours, when our victorious legions could see through the smoke of battle the tall spires of that rebellious city—since the prison and lazar house for thousands of Union soldiers. Right well we say does the country remember how the blundering hero gave the command to retreat when it should have been advance, and how, instead of doing what every one, even the rebels in Richmond, supposed, destroy the city, he marched his army back again, without having so much as harmed a single building. Then there was the blundering in the second battle of Bull Run, where Gen. Pope was allowed to be defeated.—The blunder at Antietam, where Lee was allowed very leisurely to withdraw his forces, when he should have been captured; and hundreds of others too numerous to be mentioned within the limits of this short article. But every one of them, written in the blood and groans and dying agonies, of Loyal Union Patriots. We might go on, we say, with numerous other blunders of this great Military Hero, but we shall let them suffice for his military fame.

Turn we now to his other field of action, civil life, and here the first act of his must be regarded as a complete blunder. We allude to the fact of his allying himself to the copper head faction. We think our General will, after his Presidential contest is over, find that this was the great blunder of his life. The blunder par excellence, beside which all other futile efforts sink into insignificance. How he must have felt this when he heard the mobs of New York crying out down with the nigger, and huzzaing for Jeff. Davis and McClellan. One might have supposed that he would have been deterred by their unfortunate movements, from any further attempts in the line of Presidential aspiration. But alas, not content with his past experience, he essays to write his famous Woodward letter. This [illegible] were compelled to admit as a most damaging blunder. It was a blunder of that peculiar kind which will admit of no palliation. A blunder not of the head but, of the heart, a patent blunder, that every voter in Pennsylvania could see and understand, and one, too, which from the very circumstances of the case, every voter in Pennsylvania must see and understand. To cure, in some measure the damaging effects of this sad, disastrous, patent blunder, his friends conceive the novel and brilliant idea of getting up his report of his campaign as an electioneering document, which was at the outset a decided blunder. No other man would, under any pretence, have scattered his report broadcast among the people.—Fancy such a thing coming from Grant, or Freemont, or Pope, or Buell, or Hooker, or Burnside, indeed anybody but the "Little Napoleon." Why the very idea is ridiculous.

We repeat, then, that the very conception of such a thing was a blunder; for it immediately put people upon their guard, and Gen. McClellan may rest assured that his book will be completely riddled during the coming campaign. A great many Presidential aspirants have killed themselves off by a single letter or two; but here we have the spectacle of a man attempting a political felo de se, with a whole octave. It is like a man blowing out his brains with a 64 pounder, when a small pocket pistol would have been amply sufficient.

Already his numerous blunders have began to be criticized and exposed. We have only space for one or two, which we clip from the New York Times, promising our readers, however, that as the campaign progresses they will have plenty more of the same sort:

The period of three months, during which Gen. McClellan, according to his own statement, was engaged in reorganizing the army, having passed,—the Government and the Nation became naturally anxious that the splendid army of over a hundred and fifty thousand men, which had by this time grown upon the banks of the Potomac should be turned to account. Our foreign relations, our domestic interests, our national honor—every consideration conspired to urge an attack on the insolent foe who held the Capital in siege. But we shall see that during no period of the six months succeeding the 1st of November—and during all of which period the motives for an advance became progressively more and more imperative—did, or would Gen. McClellan consent to move his army.

We shall now proceed to set forth what are Gen. McClellan's explanations of this delay, and we shall enter into some analysis thereof. If we are successful in this, we shall demonstrate that his reasonings are wholly inadequate to justify a delay that had well nigh proved fatal to the nation.

Gen. McClellan's explanation of his inactivity during the Fall and Winter of 1861-62 are well summed up in the following paragraph, which we find on page 25 of his Report:

"The records of the War Department show my anxiety and efforts to assume active offensive operations in the Fall and early Winter. It is only just to say, however that the unprecedented condition of the roads and Virginia soil would have delayed an advance till February, had the discipline, organization and equipment of the army been as complete at the close of the Fall as was necessary, and as I desired and labored against every impediment to make them."

The first element enumerated is the roads and the weather, the condition of which Gen McClellan tells us were "unprecedented." If there be any inference to be drawn from this expression and its context, it is that they were "unprecedentedly" bad, for this reason is given in excuse for not moving. Now it is true that the condition of roads of Virginia during the Fall and Winter of 1861-2 was "unprecedented," but unprecedentedly good; and this, happily, is not a matter in regard to which we are left to the unsure testimony of memory; we have cotemporary evidence which establishes the fact by an accumulation perfectly irrefragable. Gen. Franklin, testifying under oath to this specific point, on the 26th of December, 1861, says: "the condition of the roads is good." Gen. Wadsworth on the same day says: "The roads are remarkably good—perhaps, not once in twenty years have the roads at Christmas been in as good condition as they are now Having had this long period of dry weather, the roads are very good."—So Gen. Fizt-John Porter, in reply to a query as to the condition of the roads, says: "As far as I know, they are in excellent condition, excellent traveling condition." In like manner testified a score of officers: we need not cite their evidence, but will limit ourselves to the testimony of a rebel witness. Pollard, in his First Year of the War, says: "A long, lingering Indian Summer, with roads more hard, and skies more beautiful than Virginia had seen for many a year, invited the enemy to advance. He steadily refused the invitation to general action. The advance of our lines was tolerated to Munson's Hill, within a few miles of Alexandria, and opportunities were sought in vain by the Confederates, in heavy skirmishing, to engage the lines of the two armies."

The nation has long since felt the stinging justice of this reproach; and will not find much consolation in the false pretences under which Gen. McClellan takes refuge. We contess our utter inability to account for the complete discrepancy of his statement with the fact of the case. We shall find his other arguments for delay drawn from the strength and discipline of our army and the strength of the enemy equally baseless. But these considerations must form the subject of a future article.

Secretary Chase Declines the Presidency.

Secretary Chase has written a letter to Senator Hall, of the Ohio Legislature, declining to allow the use of his name as a candidate for the Presidency. In doing this, we think he acted wisely. While it has been said, with some degree of truth at least, that all the brains and the capital of the country was for Mr. Chase, yet it is equally true that the people are for Mr. Lincoln, and their will governs. Mr. Lincoln has a hold upon the affections of the people that no other man has or can have for the present. They recognize in him a kind-hearted, honest, good man, of practical views, sound judgment and unswerving patriotism, and believe that justice to him and the country requires his re-election. Our public men justly regard Mr. Chase as the master-mind of the Administration, of clear, comprehensive, statesman-like views, capable of leading and moulding public opinion. In him they recognize a superior, and long for such at the helm of State.—With the people, we have always preferred Mr. Lincoln, believing that no better man can be found in the nation, or no one on whom we can more safely rely. He possesses, in a remarkable degree, a peculiar fitness for the position he occupies. No man could be better adapted to steer clear of contending parties and political influences, and yet retain the respect and co-operation of all. Our danger lies in the divisions and animosities of the friends of the Government. To reconcile their differences and retain their support is all that is now required to complete the work of restoration, and Mr. Lincoln is the man for the work.

We see in Mr. Chase a man who has done as much to save the Government as any man in it. Upon the success in his department depended the life or death of the nation. He has succeeded, contrary to the predictions, the hopes and fears of the world, and by that success saved the nation. We owe him a debt of gratitude that we can never fully repay. He is worthy of any position in the Government he has so signally upheld and saved; yet we cannot spare him from his present position. Who could take his place? If there was no other reason for opposing his promotion, this alone should prevent it. The country must have his services in her financial department. The nation acknowledges her gratitude to him and takes delight in doing him honor. In point of financial ability, business capacity, shrewdness of judgment, comprehensive, statesman like views, and knowledge of the nation's wants and remedies, he stands without a superior, and almost without an equal. Could the Presidency add more?

We are glad he has withdrawn, and hope he will remain with Mr. Lincoln four years longer, after which let him ask and he shall receive.

TESTIMONIAL.

The Grand Inquest feel it a duty and pleasure to present to the Court, that the District Attorney, James S. Rutan, Esq., deserves the thanks of the Grand Jury and the Court, for the ability and promptness which he has displayed in the discharge of his official duties, and for his uniform kindness and attention to the Grand Jury, having presented some fifty bills of indictment, a majority of which, they learn, had to be prepared during the sitting of the Inquest, owing to the late date in which the returns were sent in; and yet they had not to wait for business—everything being prepared and in order. It is owing to his energy and promptness that the Grand Jury is enabled to close their business so soon, thereby saving a great expense to the county; and whilst his duties were arduous and difficult, yet he has been attentive and obliging, and always ready and prompt in his attendance upon the Inquest.

W. A. LAIRD, Foreman.

MR. EDITOR: We are indebted to the Clerk of Quarter Sessions for a copy of the foregoing very appropriate and well deserving Testimonial, and knowing your well established principles and fixed purpose, always to "give honor to whom honor is due," we ask a small space in the ARGUS to add our testimony to that of many gentlemen who have freely and very frankly expressed the opinion, that, as Foreman of the Grand Inquest for Beaver county, at this, the March sessions, 1864, Wm A. Laird has exhibited an untiring energy and business qualification that truly entitles him to the very highest praise, and that the thanks of the citizens of the county are justly due the members of that body for their industry and interest manifested on behalf of the people.—In the short space of three days and a half they examined between eighty and one hundred witnesses and passed upon more than forty bills of indictments—a work not frequently surpassed in any county. NEWBERN, March 8.—Gen. Peck has issued an order prohibiting the sending of information to the Northern press by any person in North Carolina, other than authorized correspondents. The army gunboat Foster, with a detachment of the 101st Pennsylvania regiment, surprised a guerilla camp at Fairfield and captured the whole guerilla company.

☞ The following which is taken from a Cairo (Ill.) paper, has been handed us for publication:

THE NEW RAM AVENGER.—The new steam ram Avenger, which has been lying at the naval wharf for several days, attracts considerable attention in nautical circles. She is a large sidewheeler, resembling the boats of the Mississippi Marine Brigade in appearance, but is easily distinguished by her short stout chimney. Her hull is of unique shape—from the water line up not unlike one hull reversed upon another—its object being not to present at any point a right angle to the shot of the enemy. She is as strong as wood and iron can make her—her bow is very sharp, and for over twenty feet is solid timber, whilst her sides are four feet thick and very strongly braced. The machinery is in the hold, and entirely below reach of shot. Her armament consists of one 100 pounder Parrott, and eleven 12 and 24-pounder howitzers. Her engines are of immense power, and her run down the river proved her to be the fastest boat afloat—it is said that she made the run from Mound City to this place in 12 minutes, or thirty miles an hour! No vessel afloat can withstand the shock of this monster when rushing ahead at full speed. She will probably soon have an opportunity to display her butting propensities, as two or three rebel rams are up the Red river patiently awaiting her advent. The Avenger was built at New Albany, Ind., under direction of Gen. Ellet, being originally intended for the Marine, but before completion was transferred to the Navy. She arrived here in an unfinished state, but is being fitted up as rapidly as possible, a heavy force of workmen being employed upon her day and night.

New Military Arrangements

The following military arrangements have been made:

First. By order of the President Lieutenant-General Grant is assigned to the command of the armies of the United States.

Second. Major General Halleck is relieved from duty as General in Chief, and assigned to special duty at Washington as Chief of Staff of the armies.

Third. Major General Sherman is assigned to command the Military Division of the Mississippi, lately commanded by General Grant and comprising the Departments of the Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and Arkansas.

Fourth. Major General M'Pherson is assigned to command the Department of the Tennessee, recently commanded by General Sherman.

Fifth. Lieutenant General Grant will establish his headquarters in the field, with the respective armies operating under his personal supervision.

Washington Items.

General Grant will return from the west as soon as he has completed the necessary arrangements for the transfer of commands in that section. He will not, however, remain in Washington, but will personally supervise the operations of our armies in the field.

General Meade will not be removed from the command of the Army of the Potomac. General W. F. Smith, who will be confirmed as Major General of volunteers this week, will probably be chief of staff either to Meade, or, as is more likely, to Grant.

It is estimated at the War Department that the number of new enlistments under the calls for five hundred thousand men, in all the States, up to the first of April, will foot up two hundred thousand men. A draft will certainly be required to fill the quotas of Kentucky, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland. The War Department contemplates a further call for 200,000 men.

Additional Call for Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1864.—We can positively state that the additional call for two hundred thousand men, inentioned, as contemplated by the War Department, in this correspondence, some days since, will be issued to-morrow or the day after. It is intended to fill the deficit under the former calls that will arise in the operation of the amendments to Conscription act recently passed, authorizing the transfer of men from the army to the navy and credits to different States for enlistments in the navy and marine corps.

Bonaparte Refused a Crown.

It is stated that Maximillian still hesitates in his acceptance of the crown of Mexico. It is not the first time, however, that bauble has been refused. In 1820 while Joseph Bonaparte (Count de Surviliers) was residing at Bordentown, N. J., a deputation from Mexico came there to offer him the Mexican Crown. Bonaparte replied: "I have worn two Crowns—I would not take a step to wear a third. I do not think that the Throne you wish to raise will make you happy.—Every day I pass in this hospitable land proves more clearly to me the excellence of Republican Institutions for America. Keep them as a precious gift from Heaven; settle your internal commotions; follow the example of the United States and seek among your fellow-citizens a man more capable than I am of acting the giant part of Washington."

Shocking Accident.

A shocking catastrophe, resulting in the death of two men and the serious injury of a third, occurred near Freedom on Saturday evening. It appears that about three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the tow boat "Panther," Captain Cochran in command, left this port for Cincinnati with a heavy tow of coal, reaching Freedom shortly before dark. Here it was resolved to pull up for the night, and the boat was stopped, but such was the force of the current that the timber head around which the lines attached to the barges were coiled, gave way, knocking a young man named Edward Haigh overboard, instantly killing a deck hand whose name is unknown, and dangerously injuring Johnny Mackey, late of "Sportsmans' Hall," Third street, who was a passenger on board. Young Haigh, was a son of Mr J. P. Haigh of this city, and a most worthy and promising young man. He was in the act of throwing a bucket of water on the line, which had taken fire from some cause or other, when the timber head gave way and he was precipitated into the river, after which he was not seen again. The deck hand was horribly mangled and died on the instant. Mackey, who was on his way to Cincinnati, where he had made arrangements for opening a house, was struck by one of the lines and knocked overboard, alighting on a barge distant some thirty five feet. Both his legs were badly lacerated, but no bones were broken. The tow boat "Hornet" visited the scene of the catastrophe last evening, and brought Mackey up to the city. He is now lying at his late place of business on Third street, and some days will elapse before he will be able to be about again. Search was made for young Haigh's body, but without avail. It was carried along by the current, and some time may elapse before it will be found.—Pitts. Chronicle.

Important to Soldiers' Heirs.

In case where heirs of a soldier have claimed full bounty, though there be arrears due by said soldier on pay account, &c., it has been decided by Comptroller Brodhead that there is nothing in the law of July 22, 1861, and July 11, 1862, changing the practice under former bounty laws, to the effect that the soldier's indebtedness must be deducted from his bounty. Under the system of allotments, soldiers send so large a portion of their pay to their families that, when they die in service, a small balance or account of pay will often be due to the United States, which, justly, should be deducted, for the contract of enlistment does not bind the Government to give for the soldiers' services monthly pay and rations, bounty, whatever balance may be due from the soldier at his death, a balance arising frequently from allotments for the benefit of the parties to whom the bounty descends.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Caroline says: General Wadsworth left this city for Fortress Monroe, yesterday, with orders from the War Department to stop all the exchanges of prisoners, upon the basis recently acted on by the rebels, by which one hundred rebel prisoners were exchanged for every seventy five of ours in possession of the rebel authorities. Gen Wadsworth has been instructed to state that no more prisoners will be exchanged except upon the principle of man for man, and, that too, without regard to color.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The statement that the exchange of prisoners was to be suspended, the administration not agreeing to Gen. Butler's plan therefor, as made in the Washington Chronicle to day, is authoritatively denied, for with the exception of the single fact that Gen. Wadsworth has left this city, there is not a shadow of foundation for the statement or any portion of it. The Government has no intention whatever of interfering with the business of regulating exchange entrusted to Gen Butler.

THE Philadelphia Telegraph says "that a letter has been received from a friend of the late brave Col. Dahlgren, who served with that unfortunate officer during the recent raid about Richmond, which states emphatically that the so called 'order' alleged to have been found upon the body of Dahlgren, was a fabrication and forgery in toto. No such order was ever written, issued, printed, or even considered by the noble young Colonel, as far as his friends are apprised. It is believed that this miserable lie was gotten up for effect, to cover the indignities visited upon the remains of Dahlgren."

A CHARGE.—A severe charge, says a Washington dispatch, has been made against Mr. Daniel W. Vorhees, the chief Vallandighamite, in Congress, upon the positive knowledge of the Commercial newspaper of Cincinnati, which asserts that Mr. Vorhees, with a deputation of Copperheads from the West, visited Gov. Seymour, "to bring a pressure upon him to take the lead in a Northern insurrection, but was exceedingly disgusted because he did not find Seymour ripe for rebellion." This charge is made boldly, and is worthy an answer.

☞ Hon. Jere. Clemens, of Huntsville, Alabama, formerly United States Senator, presided over and addressed a large Union meeting at that place on the 5th inst. Highly loyal resolutions were passed, and another Convention was called.

Effect of Kilpatrick's Raid.

Returned Richmond prisoners give the following incidents connected with Kilpatrick's raid: When information reached Richmond that Kilpatrick had crossed the Rapidan, the most rigorous orders were issued respecting the prisoners. Maj. Turner, their keeper, had been severely censured for the escape of Col. Streight and party, and was told if any more escaped he would be sent to the front. One of the Chickamauga prisoners had also written the Major that if he did treat the prisoners better, and allow them to have their boxes, they would assassinate him.

These threats, with the advance of Kilpatrick, induced Turner to remove the stairs of the prison so as to prevent communication with the lower story, and when the fact that Kilpatrick was really approaching Richmond was established, the prison was mined, 200 kegs of powder placed under it, and every preparation made to blow this prisoners into eternity. This fact is established beyond question. From the ringing of bells, the passing of troops through the city from Petersburg, and orders that no prisoner should approach the windows near enough to touch the bar on peualt of being shot, our captives knew that Kilpatrick was really attempting their deliverance.

Ignorant that the prison was mined, a plan was formed to attempt to join our forces should they enter the city. On Monday not even the sweeps were allowed to enter Libby to clean the rooms. Only those bringing rations came in, and they refused to converse. The guard were increased, and strict orders given to shoot any one who approached the windows or stairways. On Tuesday night the cannonading, when Kilpatrick was shelled from his camp near Mechanicksville, was distinctly heard.

During the excitement, one of the guards, who had been overheard to say that he would shoot one of the damned Yankees if he got a chance, fired at Captain Hammond of the 5th New York Cavalry, while at the sinks, the ball grazing his head and passing through his cap. After the affair was over, the attendants became communicative, and were bitter in their denunciations. Three officers and one hundred and fifty men from Kilpatrick's men were confined in the cells, and fed only on corn pone and water. Mrs. Sedilon, wife of the rebel Secretary of War, visited the House to identify a wounded officer, formerly connected with the burning of her house.

She failed to do this, but assured him in unmeasured terms, and said they all ought to be hung, and she should use every exertion to have them hung. Dahlgren's body was buried in the field next the road in a pine box made by negroes out of boards torn from a barn. The authorities in Richmond hold it dug up for their fury and indignities.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—Mr. Brogant, a Democrat of New York, today introduced in the assembly a series of resolutions declaring that the war must be prosecuted until slavery is annihilated, and that the Constitutional abrogation of slavery should clear the path to our manifest destiny and produce the restoration of a united nation, and requesting Congress to submit to the people the constitutional amendment forever prohibiting and terminating slavery.

RETURNING TO THEIR ALLEGIANCE.—The Choctaws have called a Convention to arrange for rehabilitation in the United States Government. ☞ A British subject recently arrived at Knoxville, Tenn., who ran the blockade into the Confederacy with 5,000 dols. to speculate in cotton, was conscripted into the rebel army, passed through several severe battles, and finally escaped into our lines, a wiser man.

☞ Gen. Rosecrans has rescinded all orders heretofore issued in the Department of Missouri, prohibiting the sale and circulation of certain newspapers and other publications.

IMPORTANT TO FEMALES.

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS

THE combination of ingredients in these Pills are the result of a long and extensive practice. They are mild in their operation, and certain in correcting all irregularities, painful menstruations, removing all obstructions, whether from cold or otherwise, headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, whites, all nervous affections, fatigue, hysterics, pain in the back and limbs, etc., disturbed sleep, which arise from interruption of nature.

Dr Cheeseman's Pills

RAIL-ROAD HOUSE,

ADAM JOHNSON, PRO'R

ROCHESTER, PA.

HET SOLDIER'S TRUE FRIEND!

ALWAYS READY.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LONG marches, sore and stiff joints, blistered and inflamed feet, all these the soldier must endure, MOTHERS, REMEMBER THIS, when your sons are grasping their muskets to meet danger, think what relief a pot of this ALL HEALING & COOLING Salves will give to the one you love when far away from home and friends. It hardens and makes tough the feet so that they can endure great fatigue. It soothes and relieves the inflamed and stiffened joints, leaving them supple, strong and vigorous, while for at stands unequalled, removing and preventing every vestige of inflammation and gently drawing the edges together, it quickly and completely heals the most frightly wounds.

SABRE CUTS AND GUNSHOT WOUNDS

WIVES AND SISTERS OF OUR VOLUNTEERS

Yo cannot put into the Knapsack Husbands and Brothers, a more valuable nor more necessary gift than a supply of this EXTRAORDINARY MILITARY SALVE.

The lonely sentry walking his ronuds at night, exposed to drenching rains and chill night air, is often seized the most VIOLENT PAINS, COUGHS and SUFFOCATING HOARSNESS, first symptoms of QUICK CONSUMPTION, but if supplied with HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT; all danger is averted, a few Pills taken night and morning, and the ointment briskly rubbed twice a day over the throat and chest will remove the SEVEREST PAINS and stop the most distressing or DANGEROUS COUGH Therefore we say to the whole army,

SOLDIERS ATTENTION!!

See to your own health, do not trust to the Army supplies although most valuable. These PILLS and OINTMENT have been thoroughly tested, they are the only remedies used in the European Camps and Barracks, for over forty years Doctor Holloway has supplied all the armies in Europe, and during the CRIMEAN CAMPAIGN he established a depot at Balaclava, for the exclusive sale of these GREAT REMEDIES, many a time his special Agent there has sold over a ton in weight of the Ointment in a single day. These terrible and fatal enemies of the Soldier in Camp,

DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, SCURVY, SORES and SCROFULOUS ERUPTIONS, all disappear like a charm before these PILLS AND OINTMENT, and now while the Cry rings throughout the land,

TO ARMS! TO ARMS!!

Do not let these brave men perish by disease, place in their hands these PRECIOUS REMEDIES, that will enable them to resist the dangerous exposures, the Fevers, the Chills, and the wounds which they cannot avoid, and what is more, cannot frequently get succor in the moment of need, whereas if our brave men have only to put their hands into their Knapsacks and find there a sure remedy for all the casualities of the battle field. How many thousands of lives would thus be saved who would otherwise perish before relief could be obtained.

TO PHYSICIANS & DRUGGISTS.

THE undersigned would inform Physicians and Druggists that, owing to an increasing demand, he is now prepared to manufacture on a larger scale than heretofore all articles of the Pharmacopœia. These will be of the strength and quality as dispensed in the Prescription Department of my store, and will be found superior in strength to most in market. I guarantee them to be of the proper strength and purity.

Some preparations offered are new, but will be made officinal in the new Pharmacopœia soon to be issued, and will be found to be valuable remedies.

Any information as regards their strength, uses and qualities will be sent to those desiring it.

I would advise Physicians who have been disappointed in the effect of any remedy to try those of my manufacture.

They include—

Compound Extract of Colocynth,

Fluid Extracts of Dandelion, Buchu, Ergot, Gentian, Lipulin Valerian, Wild Cherry Bark, and others,

Citrate of Iron and Citrate of Iron and Quinine; very soluble,

Wine of Iron and Wine of Iron and Bark agreeable; chalybeates,

Syrup of the Hypophosphites,

Cerate of the Extract of Cantharides; a more reliable preparation than the common Cerate,

Oxalate of Cerium; useful in obstinate vomiting,

Elixir of Valerianate of Ammonia; a valuable remedy for nervous or sick headaches where a nervous stimulant and antacid is indicated,

Solution of Bi-meconate of Morphia: same strength as Laudanum and more agreeable in its effects,

Pyro-phosphate of Iron: soluble.

These, together with all rare and fine chemicals and other medicinal articles, furnished in any quantities.

I am prepared to make chemical examinations of Ores, Drugs, Oils, Waters, &c.

CRITTENDEN'S PHILADELPHIA COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

N. E. corner of 7th & Chestnut St.,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THIS Institution, which was established in 1844, and is now consequently in the eigthteenth year of its existence, numbers among its graduates, hundreds of the most successful Merchants and Business Men of our Country.

The object of the Institution is solely to afford young men facilities for thorough preparation for business.

NEW BRIGHTON RETREAT.

AN ASYLUM FOR THE RECEPTION, CURE AND TREATMENT OF MENTAL ALIENATION OR DISORDER

And Other

Nervous and Chronic Diseases.

EXCLUSIVELY FOR FEMALES.

THIS institution is now open for the reception, care, and treatment of the independent class of patients who are laboring under mental derangement; or other nervous and chronic disease. We make special mention of nervous and chronic diseases, from the fact that seven-tenths of the female patients that are committed to our public Asylums, to be treated for disordered minds, are reduced to that lamentable condition through previous physical disorder. By a well timed and judicious treatment of chronic and nervous diseases, all physical disorders, in the majority of cases may be removed; and thus the mind, having suffered, through the medium of the body will when free from the exciting physical cause, throw off the shackles that has bound it to worse than midnight darkness, and reason will, once more, resume its sway clothed in all its primitive beauty and wonted excellence. Hence the necessity of all those, who are laboring under the predisposing or exciting causes, calculated in the end to impair the mind to resort to an early and judicious course of remedial agents.

The Institution is a large brick building with a stone basement—four stories high and well ventilated. It is situated on an elevated table land which commands a view of entire town—adjacent hills—groves and neighboring streams; all of which are calculated to produce favorable impressions upon the disorder ed mind.

The Institution is complete in all of its appointments. Having been tastefully fitted up at great expense, in order that it may meet the approbation and views of the most fastidious.

The water closets and bathing apparatus have been gotten up upon the most approved modern scientific principles. This department embraces not only the ordinary baths but, also, the medicated, warm air and ascending and descending douche for the more effectual and successful treatment of cutaneous and other scrofulous diseases.

We beg leave to say to all those who may be disposed to commit the interests of a dear wife, sister or daughter, to our charge—may be assured that no means will be spared or efforts wanting on our part to ameliorate their condition or to effect a restoration to their accustomed health and vigor of mind.

ITS loves and hates, sorrows and angers, hopes and fears, regrets and joys; MANHOOD, how lost, how restored; the nature treatment and radical cure of spermatorrhœa or seminal weakness; involuntary emissions, sexual debility and impediments to marriage generally; nervousness, consumption, fits, mental and physical incapacity, resulting from SELF-ABUSE—are fully explained in the MARRIAGE GUIDE, by WM. YOUNG, M. D. This most extraordinary book should be in the hands of every young person contemplating marriage, and every man or woman who desires to limit the number of their offspring to their circumstances. Every pain, disease and ache incidental to youth, maturity and old age, is fully explained; every particle of knowledge that should be known is here given. It is full of engravings. In fact, it discloses secrets that every one should know; still it is a book that must be locked up, and not lie about the house. It will be sent to any one on the receipt of twenty-five cents in specie or postage stamps. Address DR. WM. YOUNG, 416 Spruce st., above Fourth, Philadelphia.

Afflicted and Unfortunate, no matter what may be your disease, before you place yourself under the care of any of the notorious QUACKS—native or foreign—who advertise in this or any other paper, get a copy of Dr. Young's book, and read it carefully. It will be the means of saving you many a dollar, your health, and possibly your life.

DR. YOUNG can be consulted on any of the diseases described in his publication, at his office, 416 Spruce Street, above Fourth, Philadelphia. Office hours from 9 to 3, daily. [mar26

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES OF THE BRAVE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS And Ointment.

ALL WHO have Friends and Relatives in the Army or Navy, should take especial care that they be amply supplied with those Pills and Ointment; and where the brave Soldiers and Sailors have neglected to provide themselves with them, no better present can be sent them by their friends. They have been proved to be the Soldier's never-failing friend in the hour of need.

COUGHS AND COLDS AFFECTING TROOPS

Will be speedily removed and effectually cured by using these admirable medicines, and by paying proper attention to the Directions which are attached to each Pot or Box.

SICK HEADACHES AND WANT OF APPETITE INCIDENTAL TO SOLDIERS.

These feelings which so sadden us, usually arise from trouble or annoyances, obstructed perspiration, or eating and drinking whatever is unwholesome, thus disturbing the healthful action of the liver and stomach. These organs must be relieved, if you desire to be well. The Pills, taking according to the printed instructions, will quickly a produce a healthy action in both liver and stomach, and as a natural consequence a clear head and good appetite.

WEAKNESS OR DEBILITY INDUCED BY OVER FATIGUE,

Will soon disappear by the use of these invaluable Pills, and the Soldier will quickly acquire additional strength. Never let the bowels be either confined or unduly acted upon. It may seem strange that Holloway's Pills should be recommended for Dysentery and Flux, many persons supposing that they would increase the relaxation. This is a great mistake, for these Pills will correct the liver and stomach and thus remove all the acrid humors from the system. This medicine will give tone and vigor to the whole organic system however deranged, while health and strength follow as a matter of course. Nothing will stop the relaxation of the Bowels so sure as this famous medicine.

VOLUNTEERS ATTENTION! INDISCRETIONS OF YOUTH.

Sores and Ulcers, Blotchings and Swellings, can with certainty be radically cured if the Pills are taken night and morning, and the ointment be freely used as stated in the printed instructions. If treated in any other manner they dry up in one part to break out in another. Whereas this Ointment will remove the humors from the system and leave the Patient a vigorous and healthy man. It will require a little perseverance in bad cases to insure a lasting cure.

FOR WOUNDS EITHER OCCASIONED BY THE BAYONET, OR SABRE OR THE BULLET, SORES OR BRUISES,

To which every Soldier and Sailor are liable there are no medicines so safe, sure and convenient as Holloway's Pills and ointment. The poor wounded and almost dying sufferer might have his wounds dressed immediately, if he would only provide himself with this matchless Ointment, which should be thrust into the wound and smeared all around it, then covered with a piece of linen from his knapsack, and compressed with a handkerchief. Taking night and morning 6 or 8 Pills, to cool the system and prevent inflamation.

Every Soldier's knapsack and Seaman's chest should be provided with these valuable Remedies.

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernable as a water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

 Sold at the Manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines, throughout the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62 cents and $1 each.

There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

This portion of the Germantown Telegraph will alone be worth the whole price of subscription, as every Farmer and Gardener, who has a proper conception of his calling, will readily admit.

It would be impossible to present, the condensed and carefully made-up form in which it appears, a corrected mass of all the most interesting news of the week, without involving much physical labor, tact and judgment.

NOW.

ARE DR. HURD'S PREPARATIONS GOOD

The best evidences that they are is that their firmest friends and best patrons are those who have used them longest. Dr. Wm. B. Hurd is an eminent Dentist of Brooklyn, Treasurer of the New York State Dentists' Association, and these preparations have been used in his private practice for years, and no less a citizen of Brooklyn or Williamsburg ... excellence, while eminent Dentists of New York recommend them as the best known to the profession. Without ... advertising, dealers have sold them by the gross.

The Editor of the Brooklyn Daily ... says: "We are happy to know that our friend, Dr. Hurd, is succeeding beyond all expectations with his MOUTH WASH and TOOTH POWDER. The great secret of his success rests with the fact that his articles are precisely what they are represented to be, as we can testify from their long use."

The well known P. T. Barnum writes: "I found your TOOTH POWDER so good that my family have used it all up. We find it the best powder for the teeth we have ever used. I shall feel obliged if you will send me another supply at the Museum at your convenience, with bill."

But their cost is so small that every one may test the matter for himself.

Beware of the ordinary Tooth Powders. Dr. Hurd's Tooth Pooder contains no acids, nor alkali, nor charcoal, and polishes without wearing the enamel. Use no other.

WHAT WILL DR. HURD'S REMEDIES EFFECT?

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder will give young ladies that finest charm in woman—a sweet breath and pearly teeth. Try them, ladies.

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder will cleanse the mouth from all foul exhalations, and if used in the morning, will make the breakfast taste sweeter and the day begin more pleasantly. Hundreds of persons can testify to this. Try them, gentlemen.

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder are the the best preparations in the world for curing bad breath and giving firmness and health to the gums. Hundreds of cases of Diseased Bleeding Gums, Sore Mouth, Canker, etc., have been cured by Dr. Hurd's astringent wash.

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder give an additional charm to courtship, and make husbands more agreeable to their wives and wives to their husbands. They should be used by every person having which are liable to impart a taint to the mouth.

Dr. Hurd's Toothache Droops cure Toothache arising from exposed nerves, and are the best friends that parents can have in the house to save their children from torture and themselves from loss of sleep and sympathetic suffering.

Farmers and mechanics! you cannot well afford to neglect your teeth. For a trifling sum you can now get preservatives than which Rothschild or Astor can get nothing better. Remember that Dyspepsia and Consumption of the Lungs often originate in neglect of Teeth. Send for the Treatise on Teeth, and read Dr. Fitch's observations on this subject. If too late to arrest decay in your own teeth, save your children's teeth.

NEURALGIA PLASTERS.—Dr. Hurd's Neuralgia Non-Adhesive Plasters are the most pleasant and successful remedies ever prescribed for this painful disease. The patient applies one, soon becomes drowsy, falls asleep, and awakes free from pain, and no blister or other unpleasant or injurious consequences ensue. For Earache and Nervous Headache, apply according to directions, and relief will surely follow. Nothing can be obtained equal to Dr. Hurd's Compress for Neuralgia. Try them. They are entirely a novel, curious and original preparation, and wonderfully successful. They are of two sizes, one small, for the face, price 15 cents, and the other large, for application to the body, price 37 cents. Will be mailed on receipt of price and one stamp.

WHAT ARE THE PEOPLE DOING?

The American people are intelligent enough to appreciate preparations that contribute so much to happiness of those using them, and they wont them. Every mail brings us letters, some ordering the Treatise on Teeth, some the Neuralgia Plasters, and not a few enclosing 37 cts. for the Mouth Wash, to be sent by mail; but to these we are compelled to reply that it is impossible to send a half-pint bottle by mail. The people want these Remedies. Who will supply them?

Now is the CHANCE FOR AGENTS.

Shrewd agents can make a small fortune in carrying these articles around to families. The Dental Treasury is the neatest article that a man or woman can carry around. Send for one and see, or, better, a dozen, which we will sell, as samples, for $7. Agents supplied liberally with circulars. Now is the time to to go into the business, to do good and make a profit. We are spending thousands for the benefit of agents. New England men or women! here is something nice, and a chance to take the tide at its flood. Address,

WM. B. HURD & CO.,
Tribune Buildings, New York.

That remittances may be made with confidence, W. B. H. & Co., refer to the Mayor of Brooklyn; to G. W. Griffith, President Farmers' and Citizens Bank, Brooklyn; to Joy, Coe & Co., New York; to P. T. Barnum, Esq., ... etc.
